A DISCOVERY has been made by which the faded ink on parchments may be so restored as to render the writing perfectly legible. The process consists in moistening the paper with water and then passing over the lines in writing a brush which has been wet in a solution of ammonia. The writing will immediately appear quite dark in color, and this color, in the case of parchments, it will preserve. On paper, however, the color gradually fades again, but it may be restored at pleasure by the application of sulphide.

A useful discovery is announced whereby the faded ink on old parchments may be restored as to render the writing perfectly legible. The process consists in moistening the paper with water and passing over the lines of writing a brush which has been wet in a solution of sulphide of ammonia.
